Europe Top Heads Study New America

Eisenhower Dealings Put Untried Technique Into Peace Conference

GENEVA, July 24 (AP)—European delegates to the summit conference flew home today, evidently confident they had calmed the world's stormy waters but preoccupied by the new role played by America under President Eisenhower.

Diplomats and the scores of correspondents who move from world conference to world conference felt that a new and untried technique had been thrown into international dealings by the President. The months ahead may show whether the warm good will he injected into the week's work will soften some of the barriers the Big Four foreign ministers will have to face next October.

Outline Program

It was the outline of the program for the October conference which formed the main official product of last week's meeting. The Big Four heads of government directed their foreign ministers to try in October to deal with these problems:

1. Reunification of Germany and formation of new security arrangements in Europe.
2. Disarmament, with perhaps eventual inspection of one another's military installations.
3. Breaking down of barriers to trade, travel and communication between East and West.

In advance of that, the Big Four invited the Disarmament subcommittee of the United Nations to begin in New York Aug. 29 to study the disarmament and inspection proposals made by the various governments. This would include Eisenhower's proposal for an exchange of military blueprints and photographic reconnaissance of military installations.

It was that proposal which projected Eisenhower into a new role in foreign affairs, and projected into the world of diplomacy a new and strange thing—the daring move and the warm personal appeal.

Soviets Make No Comment

This new factor, and this new proposal, were debated over the luncheon tables of the French and British delegations. Did the Russians also talk about it? They didn't say. The Eisenhower proposal was made Thursday. Bulgarian made no direct comment about it then, nor Friday, nor at the final session Saturday when in a long speech he made many Western delegates doubt whether they had made much progress at all with the Russians during the week. But not one word about the Eisenhower Plan.

The proposal was printed in Pravda in Moscow, but in a story reflecting little of the warmth President Eisenhower sought to breathe into the proposal.

From British and French quarters here came predictions the Eisenhower approach would have some short-range value. This included not only his unbridled expressions of good will in the conference, but in the talks he had with Georgi Zhukov, the wartime Soviet marshal who has risen to defense minister.

The Russians clearly attached importance to these close contacts between the President and his old wartime associate. Quickly, after the first face-to-face talk between Eisenhower and Zhukov at the "Geneva White House," the Russians asked for another and Zhukov spent nearly an hour with the President Saturday morning just before beginning the concluding day's meetings.

Feel Value Doubtful

The British and the French felt the long-range value of "the Eisenhower glow" was doubtful, but they didn't write it off. Prime Minister Eden, last of the Big Four leaders to depart, had this to say at the airport:

"Not for the first time, it has been a pleasure to work with the President of the United States. I think that the results achieved here are good and, if so, they are in generous measure due to him."

Quake Shakes Tokyo

TOKYO, July 24 (AP)—A sharp earthquake shook Tokyo for 30 seconds today. The epicenter was placed 50 miles east of the city. No damage was reported.

Turncoats Say Ike Changed Minds By Message On Radio

Trio Former POWs Arrive In Hawaii

HONOLULU, July 24 (AP)—Three former U.S. war prisoners reached American soil today and said a radio speech by President Eisenhower sped their decision to turn their backs on Red China and come home.

The three, who refused to return home at the time of the Korean armistice, are William C. Cowart, 22, Dalton, Ga.; Lewis Griggs, 22, Jacksonville, Tex., and Otho G. Bell, 24, of Hillsboro, Miss., and Olympia, Wash.

They arrived on the liner President Cleveland from Hong Kong for a 14-hour stopover in Hawaii.

Cowart said at a news conference aboard ship their decision to try to return home was "speeded up by a spontaneous movement" after they heard a speech by Eisenhower on a radio "before it was confiscated."

Speech Was 5 Months Ago

The speech, apparently more than five months ago, was about international trade agreements.

Cowart said, and what impressed them was the "peace plans" it embodied.

All three declined to say if they expected any punishment when they reach the mainland. Cowart, acting as spokesman, said only that "if a trial is held it definitely will be fair."

All three termed themselves "anti-Communists."

Cowart declined to answer many questions concerning the 18 months they spent in Red China after the Korean armistice. He said he was thinking of "those boys' safety," referring to the 17 other Americans from the Korean War who refused repatriation and are still in Red China.

He said the three of them were "never out of surveillance" in China. He declared they badgered Communist officials for five months for permission to return to the United States.

Saw American Signs

After they refused repatriation and were on their way out of North Korea, the three said they saw signs of other Americans still being held. They did not go into detail.

Asked if they were afraid, Bell replied: "Not now that we are back in our country."

"There's no use to be afraid," Griggs said. "No matter what happens, everything will be fair."

Cowart said those aboard ship "treated us like normal humans who had made a mistake. There was no hostility—none since we crossed the (Hong Kong) border."

The three missed the usual Hawaii dockside greeting but a steward brought each an orchid lei and two one dollar bills apiece with an anonymous message which said:

"Aloha to Hawaii from one who respects your honesty in admitting your mistake and being willing to pay for it."

Cowart said the gift was the "most wonderful thing that has happened to us in six years."

Queen To Curb Duke's Driving

LONDON, July 24 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II moved today to curb fast driving by the young Duke of Kent.

The Sunday Express said she has ordered an army instructor to accompany her cousin whenever he goes out in a car to keep watch, though the 19-year-old duke will not be banned from driving.

The duke, a cadet at the Royal Military Academy in Sandhurst, alarmed the royal family with his third highway accident within a year when he was banged up a week ago.

Slayer Kills Man, Strikes Woman With Car, Kills Self

SPRINGVILLE, N. Y., July 24 (AP)—A 59-year-old man shot another man to death today, ran down the victim's mother with her own automobile after forcing her to view her son's body, then killed himself, state police reported.

Troopers said the bizarre incident occurred early this morning after the three had spent the evening together at several taverns in this western New York town.

Its climax came when Willis Crandell shot himself in the head as police battered down the doors of his home.

The victim was Leroy B. Federspiel, 31. His mother, Mrs. Sarah J. Federspiel, 54, was reported in poor condition at a hospital here but was expected to recover from her injuries.

Police said the incident apparently stemmed from a quarrel over Federspiel's efforts to persuade his mother to leave Crandell's home, where she had been living.

They gave this account of the events:

West German Uniforms

House To Vote Today On Ike's Reserve Bill

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—The House is expected to give swift approval tomorrow to a compromise "force-and-coax" bill to build the military reserves to a trained body of 2,900,000 men. The Senate may approve it later in the same day.

The bill, a rewritten version of President Eisenhower's "vital" but battered reserve program, is designed to attract more young men to the reserves by several incentives and require them to keep up minimum training.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee said this country will have to keep a standing force of 2,850,000 men until the reserves reach their planned buildup, probably by 1962 at the earliest.

Only then, Vinson said Saturday, "will we be able to give serious consideration" to cutting the regulars below the long-range goal of 2,850,000 men set for mid-1956. Standing forces now total over three million men.

Vinson called the reserve program "a new era in the defense of the nation."

The compromise bill, an adjustment of Senate and House differences, in effect delays the reserve buildup two years beyond original Pentagon plans by making its main provisions applicable only to those entering service after the measure becomes law. Military officials wanted to start enlarging the present 700,000-man reserve with men now in service as the backbone.

The Pentagon is understood to have key features written into the final bill. But Vinson said the measure would give military officials "a chance to show if they can build a strong reserve." He said Congress will watch the results closely.

The chief source of new manpower is expected from a special 3-to-6 months training program for youths under 18½ who volunteer for 7½ years in the reserves. By doing this, they would avoid the 2-year active service required by the draft. High school students can get deferment from training until they finish school.

Hull's Body Lies In State

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—The body of former Secretary of State Cordell Hull lay in state at Washington National Cathedral today.

The retired, 83-year-old statesman died yesterday at Bethesda Naval Medical Center, where he had spent many months in the last years of his life. A series of strokes preceded his death.

The body—in closed casket, at his request—will lie in state at the (Episcopal) cathedral's Bethlehem Chapel until Tuesday morning. Funeral services will be held then—11 a.m. EDT—conducted by the Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre Jr., dean of the cathedral.

Hull will be buried in the cathedral cemetery, where Mrs. Hull was buried after her death early last year.

Hull, Nobel Peace Prize winner, was secretary of state longer than any other man in U.S. history. He served under the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt from March 1933, until illness forced his retirement in November 1944.

Man Rides Runaway Truck Through City At 80 MPH

WINSTED, Conn., July 24 (AP)—A terrified truck driver rode his run-away five-ton rig through Winsted at 80 miles an hour this morning with no brakes.

He shot through three red lights on the main street before his horse van, with four horses and two helpers in the back, ground to a halt against the curb on an upgrade outside of town.

He was paced by his wife in a 1955 convertible. She passed him on the downgrade at 85 miles an hour going into town and waved off traffic at the first intersection.

John L. McFaum, 48, Ipswich, Mass., couldn't speak for 20 minutes after the ride. Neither could his wife, Kathryn, 48. When they could talk, they told this story.

He was returning about 9:30 a.m. from a horse show in Lakeville with four prize horses, valued at over $15,000, in the van. He approached the steep grade leading into this northwestern Connecticut city of about 9,000 people.

When he hit the downgrade he tried to shift the truck to a lower gear to slacken speed, and the transmission broke. The whole rig started free-wheeling down the hill into Winsted's main street. He pressed the foot brake, which went right to the floorboards.

Panic-stricken, he yanked the emergency brake, but the truck was rolling so fast it promptly burned out.

His wife, driving the convertible, saw the truck was out of control and pulled alongside.

"I've got no brakes, get out of the way," he shouted, McFaum, but instead she pulled ahead and raced toward the first intersection. She slowed down at the caution light, and wave off two cars coming into the intersection just as the horse van rocketed through.

Then he missed a boy on a bicycle "by inches." At the second intersection, the truck ran through a red light and shot between two cars. At the next red light, a pedestrian ran out and stopped a car from crossing in front of the runaway.

The last red light signalled the crossing of heavily traveled Rt. 8. McFaum's luck held, he barreled across, and truck headed for the upgrade outside the city.

Patrolman Abraham Resha, directing traffic on a side street a few minutes before church let out, saw the runaway and flagged a passing car.

Resha found the truck wedged against the curb. When he opened the door, McFaum was using one hand to pry the other one off the emergency brake. All four fingers of the brake-hand were bleeding from the strength of his grip.

Russians Celebrate Soviet Navy Day

LONDON, July 24 (AP)—The Russians celebrated Navy Day today by coupling boasts of Soviet sea power with assurances the Red fleet does not "threaten anybody."

Moscow radio broadcast statements by top admirals devoted in part to praising Russian seafarers of the past and listing among their accomplishments the discovery of the antartic. There have been exploratory voyages of that region, and the Norwegian explorer Ronald Amundsen is generally credited with discovering the South Pole in 1911.

Ike To Speak To Nation Today On Geneva Talks

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP)—All the major radio and TV networks plan to carry President Eisenhower's report to the nation tomorrow night on the Geneva conference.

NBC and ABC will carry the program live from 9:30 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. EST on both television and radio. The Dumont network also plans a live telecast.

CBS and the Mutual network have scheduled live radio broadcasts of the speech.

CBS-TV said it will carry the address either live or as a recording later in the evening.

Europe Feels World Tension Has Relaxed

LONDON, July 24 (AP)—The end of the Geneva conference brought to Europeans tonight a feeling that international tension has been relaxed. Even the big Moscow news-papers, Pravda and Izvestia, took a cheery view. But some West Germans feared they had lost a trump card.

The feeling of an easement in the cold war was virtually unanimous among newspapers in the West—even among those sounding cautious warnings of hard negotiations still ahead. But it was a feeling generally of heartfelt relief rather than jubilant enthusiasm.

Pravda declared the summit conference "will go down in history as the beginning of a new stage" in East-West relations. Its work "will contribute to the strengthening of trust between the governments and peoples of these countries." The Communist party paper and Izvestia, the government organ, predicted improved chances of solving international problems in detail when the foreign ministers meet in October.

President Eisenhower was depicted in several Western newspapers as having emerged from the talks with the rank of an outstanding world leader.

British newspapers of varied political complexions emphasized Germany still remains the "big problem"—and the West German press saw a new situation developing.

The Socialist-inclined Telegraph in Berlin said West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer now would go to Moscow "as a man who gave away the trump card, whose policy was abolished—as a man, who represents only the past, not the future."

Syngman Rhee and Chiang Kai-shek became rickshaws (to the West) when the tough course was switched to the soft one in Asia. The Chancellor now shares the fate of these men.

Adenauer's Christian Democratic Party (CDU) said the conference had produced a "useful starting point" for efforts to settle East-West problems. It added that the danger of the cold war unexpectedly breaking into hot war some where in the world was receding.

Decisive for Germans was the fact the four government chiefs acknowledged the close link between reunification of Germany and European security, the CDU said. But the party warned that Geneva had shown "how long and how rocky would be the road of future negotiations."

Dulles Says U.S. Achieved Objectives

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles returned from Geneva today with a declaration that the United States achieved all its limited objectives at the Big Four conference "and perhaps a little more."

Vice President and Mrs. Nixon and about 50 others were at the airport to greet Dulles when he arrived at 11:45 a.m. EDT.

VATICAN CITY, July 24 (AP)—Clare Boothe Luce was received in audience by Pope Pius XII today for the first time since she came to Italy as U.S. ambassador more than two years ago.

Congress Still Is Hoping To Adjourn By July 30

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Expectations that Congress would be able to wind up its 1955 session by the end of this week were fading today, but Sen. Clements (D-Ky.) stuck to July 30 as his target for adjournment.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland (Calif.) called it a "tossup," largely dependent on how fast the House works early in the week to dislodge stalemate legislation.

Clements, acting Democratic leader, told a reporter no decision yet has been made on whether a bill to exempt independent natural gas producers from federal regulation will be brought before the Senate.

The gas bill is highly controversial, and its consideration would be likely to tie up the Senate in debate. A similar bill is pending in the House.

Sen. Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Conference of All Republican Senators, said he thinks it may be Aug. 15 before Congress can adjourn.

House leaders indicate they have about given up hope of quitting before Aug. 6. Although the situation may change if some knotty legislation is passed over until the 1956 session, Rep. Albert (D-Okla.), assistant House Democratic leader, forecast adjournment about Aug. 10.

The House takes up a compromise military reserve bill tomorrow, while the Senate is considering a calendar of minor measures.

Still to be resolved are "wide variations in House and Senate figures on foreign aid. They are signs the House may resist vigorously the Senate's action in restoring to $3,205,000,000 an aid fund previously cut by the House to 2,638,000,000.

One influential Republican said administration leaders hope to obtain final action this session on highway, housing, antipollution vaccine, small business and Upper Merionide development legislation.

All of these measures are on the House agenda but some of them may not get over the hurdle of Rules Committee approval.

Ike Sees New Friendliness In The World

Eisenhower To Report To Congress Today; Throng Greets Plane

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—A smiling President Eisenhower came home from the Big Four conference today and told a cheering, rain-soaked welcoming crowd, "There is evidence of a new friendliness in the world."

"Just what will be the result of this conference, of course, no one knows," the President said, "but the coming months will tell much."

"But in the meantime," he added, "we do know that new contacts have been established and there is evidence of a new friendliness in the world."

The President will give a report on the Geneva summit meeting to congressional leaders of both parties at a White House session tomorrow morning—at 8 a.m. EST. Vice President and Mrs. Nixon, a number of senators and representatives, Cabinet members, other officials and foreign diplomats gave the President and Mrs. Eisenhower an enthusiastic welcome when their Super Constellation landed at 8:36 a.m. EST.

Hundreds Join Cheering

Hundreds of other persons joined in the cheering and hand waving. Secret Service agents estimated 5,000 people were at the airport or along nearby roads.

There was one interval of solemnity. Silence fell over the crowd when, just as the chief executive appeared in the door of the plane, the scarlet-coated Marine band played "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The President, rain spattering his tan summer suit, stood motionless, his hat over his heart. Mrs. Eisenhower, wearing a print dress with a black background and a small white hat, stood beside him. In the rear, saluting, stood their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, in Army uniform.

The President and his family ignored the weather and jovially shook hands all around when the welcoming party surged forward at the end of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Finally, rain splashing his face and drenching his suit, the President strode to a group of microphones and voiced thanks for the welcome-home demonstration.

"After the hard week I have been through," he said, "it is very heartwarming to have such a reception as this... It's really great to be home."

He voiced praise for Secretary of State Dulles, who came in on another plane two hours later. Eisenhower said Dulles represented this country at Geneva, as at other conferences, "with the greatest of dignity and the greatest of skill."

For his part, Dulles spoke of Eisenhower's "magnificent leadership" at the Geneva meeting and said:

"I think I can say with confidence that the conference was a good conference. We went there with limited objectives. I think we achieved them all and perhaps a little more."

Nixons Meet Dulles

The airport crowd had dwindled to about a half-hundred persons by the time Dulles arrived. Among them were the Nixons, Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., and Sir Roger Makins, the British ambassador.

Dulles said only history will show whether it was a "great or momentous" conference and whether "the good spirit engendered there will be maintained."

One well-wisher called out: "You did a grand job."

"Well, we didn't give much away," Dulles replied.

Along the announced-in-advance route from the airport to the White House, little knots of drenched people waved to the President while others watched from parked cars.

Two Rebels Killed, 14 Are Captured

MARY ANN POWER

Queen Selected For Elkins Event

A charming and stately young woman who within the next few years expects to be a doctor of medicine will reign over the nineteenth annual Mountain State Festival at Elkins next October 6, 7 and 8.

She is Miss Mary Ann Power, 22 year old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Curtis Garland Power of Martinsburg, W. Va. Her appointment was announced yesterday by Philip K. Harness, director-general of the Festival.

Miss Power will be crowned Queen Silvia XIX by Governor William C. Marland Thursday afternoon, October 6, in the natural amphitheater on the sloping hillside campus of Davis and Elkins College where each of her predecessors has been enthroned.

Miss Power was graduated this year from West Virginia University with the Bachelor of Arts degree and is this fall starting on the long, hard road which will lead her to the place where she will become one of West Virginia's few practicing woman physicians.

A native of Martinsburg, she is the first to be chosen from West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle area to serve as Queen of this annual event in Elkins.

How good is your figure? Mr. Powers believes it may be better than you think.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Wouldn't it be wonderful to discover that you have a much better figure than you thought you had? I think this is entirely possible.

I can't agree with popular opinion that a really good figure is rare. Good figures are far more numerous than they're thought to be — it's just that bad posture makes many of them hard to recognize.

Who can tell what natural proportions are when slumping, swayback, or a corkscrew curve position throws the body out of line? Of course the abdomen looks too large when the pelvis tilts forward. A bustline can't stay high when shoulders droop. The curve of the lower back flares outward much too soon when the spinal column isn't straight, as it should be.

Posture correction alone can turn many a seemingly bad figure into a good one. I've seen this happen too often in the Powers classes not to believe it thoroughly. General or spot weight loss or gain is necessary, of course, in some cases, but a handsome figure shapes up frequently the minute posture is under control.

If we had you here at the school, we'd make short work of your figure's shortcomings that can be blamed on posture. But the next best thing is for you to work out your problems yourself with our help from afar, and we've done everything we can to supply it in my booklet, "Your Posture," which is yours for 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to me at this newspaper.

Make no mistake about it. Posture is of top importance in the quest of beauty and charm. To the impression you make on others, and to your health, too, as well as to the symmetry of your figure.

Tomorrow — Be a sun-tanned beauty.

Flood Control Project Will Be Expedited

Sale Of $1,000,000 Bond Issue Planned

Action taken by the Mayor and Council Saturday will result in the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program moving into high gear.

Under an accelerated Corps of Army Engineers program, the Wills Creek channel work and the Market and Baltimore Street bridges will be completed sometime next year.

The decision was made at a meeting of the Mayor and Council with Corps of Army Engineers officials and U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall.

Cumberland's decision to participate in the expedited program will mean the city will have to float a $1,000,000 bond issue.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said this will be done in the next 90 days.

As a requirement of the Army Engineers, in the accelerated program a payment of $170,000 must be made by mid-August before the corps will advertise for the channel work.

Mayor Eves said the city will be able to make this payment from the remainder of the money allocated for work in Ridgeley and refunds from the government on certain phases of the big project.

Sen. Beall urged early completion of the project. He pointed out the money spent on it will help the economic picture here, will give full protection from floods such as Hurricane Hazel produced, and when finished, will open Cumberland up for more federal aid projects.

Sen. Beall said the $1,400,000 provided by Congress for work in the present fiscal year will finance significant progress on the project which became a reality in 1947 after 10 years of planning.

It was pointed out that when the job is finished, the government will have furnished $15,000,000 and the city $3,500,000.

R. L. Wadsworth, chief of the planning and report branch of the Corps of Army Engineers, said the more the project drags on the more it will cost because of rising prices, both for material and labor.

Switchboard Installed At Police Department

Dr. Harold Reese Accepts Position On State Board

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., Maryland state superintendent of schools, announced Saturday that Dr. Harold D. Reese, member of the faculty and chairman of the Department of Education at Frostburg State Teachers College, has accepted an assignment with the State Department of Education as supervisor in charge of business management for the state teachers colleges.

Dr. Reese brings to his new employment a wide background of experience in secondary school and college fields, according to Dr. Pullen.

Following early experience in the secondary schools, he served in the Navy for three and one-half years during World War II.

During this period, Dr. Reese acted as instructor in ordinance and gunnery at the Naval Reserve Midshipman School, Northwestern University, and saw duty as a base port director in the Philippines.

Following World War II, he held positions in Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa.; Drexel Institute of Technology, Philadelphia, and Frostburg State Teachers College.

The new assignment will involve work with the teachers colleges of Maryland in the fields of budget preparation and administration, analysis of space requirements and cost studies.

The five colleges are Bowie, Coppin, Frostburg, Salisbury and Towson.

Dr. Reese is a native of Mt. Carmel, Pa., and is married to the former Miss Ruth Burrows, of Philadelphia. They have two children, Jimmy, 10, and Linda, 7. The Reese family will reside in the Baltimore area.

THE RIGHT WAY TO SHOW STRENGTH

SO MUCH is heard these days about the strength-showing quality of "reverse bidding" that the "amateur" player is bound to be misled.

If South (let us say) starts off with one heart and then bids spades, the higher-ranking suit, at his next turn, he is "reversing," and he thereby announces a very good hand. But it does not follow that this is always the right way to show strength—in fact, under certain circumstances it may be very wrong indeed. Consider this case:

Children's Day Will Highlight Bedford Fair

Army Field Band To Give Concert

BEDFORD—Marked by a beautiful Grandstand Revue, the largest list of exhibitors in fair history, and new special events, the 82nd annual Bedford Fair will attract crowds of fairgoers from a 100-mile radius when the gates of Western Pennsylvania's fastest growing fair swing open Monday, August 8, for the weeklong exposition.

Children's Day activities Tuesday, August 9 will feature the presentation of many prizes to lucky ticket-holders following the afternoon performance in front of the grandstand. A pony, completely bridled and saddled, together with bikes for a boy and a girl, and more than a dozen other prizes will be awarded.

Tuesday will open with the annual Bedford Horse Show, which starts at 10:30 a. m. In the afternoon, three fast harness races will be run, as well as a special pony race. The day will close with the first showing of Hamid's "Stairway to the Stars" Revue.

On the midway, all week, will be Prell's Shows, with a wide diversity of shows and rides.

A big new event has been added to the Bedford Fair program, with the U. S. Army Field Band of more than 100 pieces coming to the fair for a special concert Wednesday afternoon during the fair's first "Band Day."

Bands from more than one dozen nearby high schools have accepted invitations to participate in "Band Day," and these units will begin a parade around the track into formation at 1:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

When all bands are in position, the entire assemblage will join in a number by the massed bands, conducted by Major Chester E. Whiting. The concert by the famed U. S. Army Field Band will follow. Free acts will be presented during the intermissions. The big special event by one of the nation's finest musical organizations is expected to attract a large crowd to the fairgrounds.

Thursday is always the "Big Day" at the fair, and as usual it will be crowded with special events, leading off with the annual Horseshoe Pitching Contest at 10 a. m.

The Cavalcade of all prize-winning livestock in front of the grandstand will take place at 1 o'clock. Fine harness races will spark an afternoon of circus acts and special attractions. In the evening, the Hamid revue will be presented.

Friday has been designated as Blair County Day, and once again all children will be admitted free. Another set of prizes, including a pony and two bicycles, will be given away to lucky ticket-holders, at the close of the afternoon program.

The second 4-H Tractor Driving Contest will start at 10 o'clock, with the winner to compete at Penn State University with others of the South Central Pennsylvania Division.

The sale of Baby Beef will start at the Auction Barn at 10:30 a. m. In the afternoon, three fast harness races will head a program, which will include the complete program of circus acts. A second pony race will be conducted. Stage acts and "Stairway to the Stars" revue will conclude the evening.

Some of the finest livestock exhibits in the state will head a long list of top-notch exhibitors of agricultural and home products. Long-famed for its Jersey cattle, Bedford county is now taking a front rank for its fine beef cattle as well. Some of the finest herds in the state will be vying for honors in all divisions.

Even at this early date, the Exhibitors building and all available space is reserved, and in all categories prospects are for the finest exhibits in history. In recent years fair directors have steadily attempted to make the premium list more attractive, and to strengthen and augment the exhibits.

Both 4-H and Future Farmers exhibitors from a 3-county area will be in the forefront of the entries. Special prizes and trophies are offered in many instances.

New Helicopter Unhitcher Needed

The moral of the helicopter crash in New York seems to be the good old admonition, "Unhitch your horse before you say 'git-up.'" Or, to put it in mariner's terms, "Better cast off your lines before trying to leave the dock!"

Almost incredible was the spectacle of a veteran helicopter pilot taking his craft off a high rooftop without making sure he wasn't still hitched to his platform. A 30-foot cable had brought electric power for starting his engine, in order to save the battery. When the airborne 'copter reached the end of this plug-in line, there was enough of a snatch to dump the machine over the edge of the platform to a parapet 25 feet below. The pilot and passenger, employees of the Port of New York Authority, were badly hurt.

What's to be thought of an arrangement that requires the pilot "to get out and pull out the plug" of the electric cable? We'll bet some sort of automatic uncoupler will be made standard operating practice hereafter.

The safety authorities might even take a tip from the big-game anglers trolling for marlin off the coast right now. Cruisers are equipped with tall, flexible outrigger poles for trolling. From the angler's rod the line goes to the end of the outrigger where a clothespin holds it under very light tension. When the fish hits the bait with his long bill the clothespin lets go — so that the bait can lie still in the water momentarily, for the fish to think he's killed it. Then the fish strikes and the angler's on his own.

The comparison here is between an angler saving his fish and a pilot saving his life by means of some simple little device. The aeronautical engineers can take it from here!

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Things Read Too Late

For many years, it has only too often been told to the American people that huge amounts of munitions have been sent to Nationalist China, which disappeared somewhere in Asia. The enemies of Nationalist China even repeated the tale that the Nationalists sold the American-provided munitions to the Japanese.

Now comes a curious document out of the Morgenthau diaries, a gold mine of historic data, made available by the Eastland Committee. It is dated September 26, 1939, 11:15 a. m. It is a transcript of a conference at which were Ambassador Hu Shih of Nationalist China, then engaged in a war against Japan that had already lasted eight years; Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury; and Joseph P. Cotton of the Export-Import Bank. Harry Dexter White came in later.

Hu Shih says:

"... the French Government forbids Chinese munitions, motor cars and gasoline—they specified these three things: Chinese munitions, motor cars and gasoline—from passing through French Indo-China."

"H. M., Jr. That is serious."

"Ambassador. That is very serious. One of those things we were afraid of."

"H. M., Jr. They won't permit what to go through? Munitions?"

"Ambassador. Munitions, motor cars and gasoline."

"Mr. Cotton. These are purchases already made?"

"Ambassador. All purchases already made."

"H. M., Jr. Humph!"

This is one of many instances of the diversion of munitions that were sent to Nationalist China. Other instances have been reported to Congressional committees. It was the period when Lauchlin Currie was in the White House, Harry Dexter White in the Treasury, Alger Hiss in the State Department.

Hu Shih does not ask for something for nothing. He puts his proposition on a business basis. He says:

"The President (Roosevelt) was very much interested. He asked about certain details. For example, payment of this last credit, and I reported that three installments had been paid on it. He was very much pleased. He said, 'That is highly complimentary; that alone should be a good excuse of renewing or extending more credits.' And he asked about securities. I told him that I learned from Mr. K. P. Chen that wood oil, tung oil, the annual production is about 44,000 tons a year and in about five years, under the contract, in five years the total production will be about 220,000 tons. At the market price of $440.00 a ton, that would be enough, would be in five years' time worth $96,000,000."

Then I also reported to the President that just that week my Government had notified Mr. Chen and myself that the Central Government was taking over the tin, the control of the tin, production of tin, which constitutes about 70 per cent of the world's production, which amounts to 10,000 tons a year from the Province of Yunnan and 3,000 tons from the Province of Kwangsi, so about 13,000 tons a year, and tin at that time was worth $1,100 a ton and now, in two weeks' time, I am told, the price is $1,200 a ton. So that, if we talk in terms of five years, the tin would be worth at least between $60,000,000, $60,000,000 or $70,000,000. The President was interested in this. He said, 'I will see the Secretary of the Treasury.'"

So, with whom was Ambassador Hu Shih to negotiate? Naturally, with Harry Dexter White, the man who was exposed by J. Edgar Hoover, under oath, as a Russian agent.

Documents such as this are usually published too late for any practical purposes. White is dead. But Hu Shih is very much alive, working at Princeton at his specialty which is philosophy. Henry Morgenthau Jr. is alive, but he cannot improve on his diaries. He must have had his office wired for recording, as every word of every conference has been taken down and is available for the historian.

The few documents which the Eastland Committee has made public clearly show what a treasure-trove these diaries are and it would be to the public good if they were all made available, if for no other reason than that history can be made more correct.

For instance, it could be valuable to students of inflation to have the entire story of the American-arranged inflation of Nationalist China. Many accounts have been written, pro and con, by persons who could not know the entire story.

Ike's Military Info Plan Points Way For UN

By David Lawrence

President Eisenhower's proposal to permit aerial inspection by Soviet planes over the United States if American planes are allowed over Russia to photograph military installations is intended only as an example of what the United Nations can do some day as the agency responsible for detecting any violation of international agreements to limit armament.

Today nuclear bombs in a stockpile cannot hurt anybody. Everybody concedes it is the "means of delivery" which is all-important. There's a way to detect whether a potential aggressor is building up for an offensive attack. It can be done as high as twelve miles in the air above a country and without detection.

Electronic eyes to aid detection make it possible for unarmed aircraft to fly over airfields where planes are located and to report daily or weekly on the total number and the nature of the craft.

The idea is not a new one. On January 13 of this year the Organization of American States asked the government in Washington, a member, to furnish aircraft for observation of the progress of the fighting in Costa Rica. Prior to that time and since, there has been discussion in military circles of a possible treaty or convention of the United Nations to submit to aerial inspection. But if any potential aggressor should refuse, and if a crisis developed, the United Nations even without a treaty could order planes to observe and detect possibly hostile moves.

Such flights at great heights can be carried out without detection by unarmed planes, and it would be a rare occurrence if they were shot down. Probably the losses would be accepted as one of the hazards of such a critical situation.

because the advantage would be to learn whether a surprise aggression was in prospect.

The reason why military men do not object when the plan for a mutual agreement was first discussed here several months ago, and why they do not object now, is because American targets have been photographed by newspapers and magazines while locations inside Soviet Russia have received no such publicity.

Theoretically it would be to the advantage of the free world to have all maps revealed and targets photographed, so that this might be an added deterrent to the use of nuclear weapons.

The President's use of the aerial inspection formula is, of course, a sensational move. It has been worked on for several weeks as one of the suggestions that might be launched at the Big Four Meeting, and it is believed that even Congressional leaders were "briefed" about it some time ago.

In a sense, the move puts the Soviets on the spot. They can hardly mistake the sincerity of purpose behind it and the desire to open things up and find a way to apply effective self-restraints so that war will not be used as an instrument of national policy. Instead of being content, as the nations were in 1929, with a Kellogg-Briand Treaty that renounced war, the proposal now is to enter into a program of mutual inspection which will mean publicizing arms preparations to the fullest extent in order that some check upon the arbitrary use of any military force.

The Soviets are not likely to stay on the spot very long. They will sooner or later come up with a variation of the plan and will not fail to seek in the court of public opinion as much prestige as the President of the United States got when he offered to exchange blueprints of our military installations as well as permits for each other's reconnaissance craft to photograph anything desired.

Certainly the pressure for peace which has been rising all over the world has reached a sensational climax in the President's proposal, thought it will be many months before any real answer to it will be forthcoming, since there are many aspects to be considered. In fact, the proposal itself will be turned over to a United Nations military committee to study. This can be a burial ground or a proving ground, depending on what impact the idea itself has made on world opinion.

One thing can be stated now — the Western delegations to Geneva thought out in advance a few moves to offset any propaganda exploitation which the Communists might be trying out. The aerial inspection plan offered by Mr. Eisenhower and the proposal by Prime Minister Eden that the Eastern and Western military commanders sit down together to discuss exchanges of information looking toward limitation or reduction of arms are in themselves evidence of the earnestness of the Western Allies in seeking a way to peace.

The Soviets will surely have to bear the responsibility for any failures, as the West now has demonstrated its willingness to go far toward "mutual disarmament."

Baering Down on The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Nehru dished up a post-mortem statement boosting the elimination of nuclear weapons via international control. The old Hindu rope-trick has no more to do with nuclear capers than you have with the hatching of penguin eggs in Terra Del Fuego.

That last time we heard of Nehru was some time ago. The sacred white cow traffic squad picked him up in the car of Jugger-naut. The coppers claimed it was going over sixty pedestrians an hour.

That would have topped our Fourth of July traffic records for patriotic drivers who only slow up for red, white and blue lights.

We don't think Nehru is going to get any further than a dropped egg. But his proposition still has the nuisance value of sand in the butter.

We never have pegged Tito's exact position. Five artistic years ago he had a one-man show in the Moscow dog house.

This year Tito and the Kremlin areas cozy as fleece-lined carpet slippers.

Beating The Heat: More Liquids, Fewer Calories

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Heat is hard on persons suffering from heart or kidney disease. Every summer, many of these victims collapse whenever the mercury soars and the air becomes saturated with moisture. This is not surprising considering the way we humans attempt to counteract surplus heat.

The body generates heat from the food consumed. The excess is carried to the skin via the capillaries and is lost mainly through radiation and evaporation. This mechanism is efficient when the environmental temperature is within reasonable limits but is strained to the utmost when heat and humidity increase unduly.

The air is so hot, body heat cannot escape through radiation and the atmosphere contains so much water, perspiration cannot evaporate from the skin. This is hard on the heart and blood pressure.

Since the circulatory system is responsible for cooling the body, if it goes haywire the blood pressure goes up and the old ticker is forced to pump as hard as though the individual had run up two flights of stairs or made a 50 yard dash. The normal person may be able to take this abuse but not victims of hypertension, kidney disease, or heart trouble, as well as the aged. For this reason they should not become overheated.

We are not as fortunate as the camel whose sweating mechanism is not turned on until its body temperature increases by at least 12 degrees F. This explains why the "ship of the desert" is a water conservator and is able to go for days without refueling. In the circumstances, humans lose large amounts of fluid through perspiration, which dehydrates the body and leads to salt depletion.

The caloric intake ought to be decreased during hot weather because 90 per cent of the food eaten is turned into heat. The remainder supplies energy used in physical activity. Overexertion makes the individual warmer and, as we have seen, adds to the work of the heart.

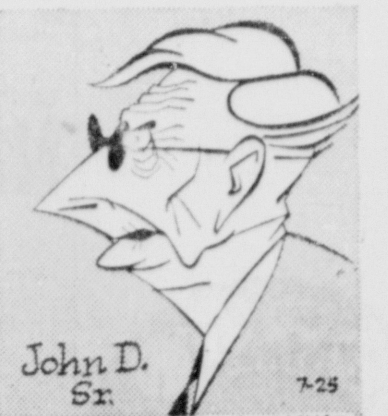

It also is advisable to stay out of the sun, wear sensible clothing, and drink more fluids. During a heat wave, the individual who is on a low salt diet because of a heart or kidney ailment, ought to consult the family physician concerning adjustments along this line.

There is no need to change when the benefits derived from this regimen are greater than the risk associated with salt loss through perspiration. On the other hand, those who have been on a restricted sodium diet for years may start in reserve. Excessive perspiration may deplete salt deposits completely with ensuing muscular cramps, weakness, and exhaustion.

MOTHER NEEDS ATTENTION

F. G. writes: My mother, 50 years old, is active and emotional and worried a lot. Sometimes she does not sleep well for five or six nights in a row. Her pressure reading is 170/125. Could this be responsible for her symptoms?

REPLY: There is enough wrong with your mother to cause concern. She ought to see her family physician.

U. S. Military Feared Ike Might Yield Too Much To End Tension

By Drew Pearson

If there's going to be genuine European disarmament, a genuine end to the Cold War and a real era of Russian understanding, then the military can raise no objections. But what they fear is the sale of their firepower for a smile. Ike, they fear, may be too prone to run for President again in 1956 on a price-of-peace platform that he ended the Cold War.

While they like Ike, they don't trust his politics.

Generally speaking, the military get more gun money from the Democrats than from the Republicans, and they've never forgotten how another Republican administration, under Warren Harding, threw away U. S. naval supremacy at the Washington Arms Conference in return for mere smiles.

U. S. Weapons Lag

Before Ike left Washington for the conference here, he received various memos from the Pentagon showing how the U. S. is falling behind Russia in certain types of weapons. Among other things, Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington sent a letter to Secretary of Defense Wilson asking certain embarrassing questions about Soviet strength in jet bombers and intercontinental atomic bombers. The questions were so hot that Wilson refused to answer them.

However, President Eisenhower has been given the answers, which I can reveal to be as follows:

1. As nearly as our intelligence can estimate, Russia is ahead of us in developing a Moscow-to-New York ballistic missile and a shorter-range continental missile.

The United States is ahead, however, in developing atomic warheads for these deadly weapons, which travel at such terrific speeds that they can't be stopped.

2. Despite Wilson's promise to speed up B-52 production by 35 per cent, Russia will have more long-range jet bombers than the U. S. by 1958. Yet the shocking truth is that Wilson either can't or won't implement his promise for a 35 per cent production increase here.

Though the Air Force will get about 30 giant B-52s this year, this is no more than the original schedule called for. Meanwhile, little has been done to speed up the production lines in Seattle and Wichita, where our only two B-52 plants are located.

3. The Soviets are already far ahead of the U. S. in numbers of advanced fighters in operational service. The new Russian supersonic fighter and all-weather interceptor recently unveiled over Moscow are also better planes than any American fighters now in squadron service.

4. Soviet engineers have also produced jet engines with a greater thrust than any produced in the U. S.

5. Despite our reputation for mass production, the Soviets have demonstrated they can tool up for mass plane production faster than we have been doing. In other words, the Russians have cut the "lead time" that it takes a new plane to progress from the blueprint stage to production. As a result, our defense planners drastically under-estimated how fast Russia could get long-range jet bombers into production.

6. At present rates of progress, Russia will not only have more and better planes than the United States, but by 1960, will have more scientists and engineers working on airpower.

This is why Radford and Gruenther want to make sure their old friend isn't carried away by Soviet smiles.

NOTE—On the other hand, President Eisenhower knows you can't make any real progress toward disarmament and peace unless you are willing to put the other side in a mood to meet you halfway.

Automatic Factories

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Not very long ago I heard a man in the automobile business say:—"In my lifetime there have been bigger changes in industry than took place in all of the years before that." Here in America, especially, our way of life has changed more within the memory of many of us than in all the generations before us.

Are We Going Too Fast?

This fast change scares a lot of thinking people. Some feel that they would have had fewer problems to face if they had been born a hundred years ago and they would not want to be around a hundred years from now because "things are changing too fast."

Some of the union leaders—men you might expect would move fast themselves—also apparently are frightened. They admit that the high wages are developing a new threat to labor which may throw huge numbers out of work. This threat is Automation, and they say it may not only throw men out of their jobs, but there just may not be any jobs! Of course, I don't believe this. Rather, history shows, "the more machinery, the more jobs"—but very different jobs.

What Is Automation?

Automation is a word that is being used a great deal nowadays. It means using electronic machines in place of men. Walter Reuther and others see this as a real danger to full employment. They seem to think that some day a manufacturer will need only to put his finger on a few buttons and push! If this were true, or close to it, then we all ought to be afraid because our way of life depends on most of us having jobs and working at them. If, however, the future is anything like the past, Automation could increase employment and raise the standard of living. There have been all kinds of developments in office machines in the last ten years, yet the number of office workers has risen from 5,100,000 to 8,100,000 during this same period.

Even now new telephone exchanges, oil refineries, and electric generating plants, for example, now look like a preview of the automatic world of tomorrow. A visitor to a big generating plant sees some gigantic pipes, an array of dials, and only one man who seems to be in charge. There is even less to look at in a modern automatic telephone exchange. If you have a chance, look at one of the new "electronic brains" which can do as much computation in, say, four minutes as a large force of men with pencil and paper could do in months. About all you will see will be a row of machines looking like so many juke boxes and flashing lights, and one or two well-dressed young women pushing buttons.

What Happens To Workers?

As the change-over to automatic production spreads, it is certain that a lot of workers will have to move to other jobs. But there are more people employed now than there were to years ago, even with very much more machinery. It has been said by experts that, without automation, we soon would not have had enough workers to do our jobs, to introduce new products, and to achieve our present prosperity.

Even in industries and offices where the automatic has been made the most work, a good deal of human effort is still necessary. Supposedly, a factory could be erected in which every process from raw material to final product could be done by a few people who would only push buttons. Actually, of course, human brains have to work out the whole scheme, and human hands have to build the machines, set them going, tend, repair, and maintain them, and sometimes stop them!

How To Use Extra Time

I don't believe we are moving too fast. We are materially and spiritually better off in this country than have the backward nations which have never had such machines. No workers anywhere ever had better working conditions or higher pay than Americans are getting today. The machine has brought them prosperity and is bringing them more time and opportunity to "do it themselves," in their own homes, with their own families. Perhaps we can all use some of this time... opportunity to cultivate the spiritual values which we have been neglecting while we have been building up our material prosperity.

Berra's Homer Nets New York Twin Victory

33,585 See Yankees Defeat Kansas City By Scores 7-3, 2-0

KANSAS CITY, July 24 (AP)—A six-run homer in the first game and a two-run homer by Yogi Berra in the ninth of the second game gave the New York Yankees 7-3 and 2-0 victories over the Kansas City Athletics here today.

That moved the faltering Yankees back into first place in the American League, one game ahead of Chicago, which split a doubleheader with Boston.

Berra hit his homer over the right field fence after eight tight innings in which Arnold Portocarrero had held the Yanks to three hits without issuing a walk.

Berra came to bat following Mickey Mantle, who had doubled to start the ninth. Portocarrero was relieved after Berra's clutch hit and a single by Bill Skowron. Tom Gorman took over, holding the Yanks hitless for the remainder of the inning.

John Kucks, the winner, went all the way, holding the Athletics to six hits without issuing a walk.

It was the first major league shutout for Kucks, a 21-year-old right-hander, who fanned five in chalking up his seventh win against four losses.

The largest crowd of the season in Kansas City, 33,585, saw the twin bill, which wound up a four-game series. The Athletics went the first two, dumping the Yankees from their accustomed first-place spot—only briefly as it turned out.

Behind the Yanks and Chicago is Cleveland. The Indians, however, trail the Sox by only two percentage points after winning both ends of a twin bill from Baltimore.

Homers Help Giants Split With Redlegs

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP)—Late-inning home runs by Bobby Hofman and Willie Mays broke up a tight pitching duel between southpaw Johnny Antonelli and Jackie Collum today as the New York Giants defeated Cincinnati 4-1 to gain a split after the Reds had won the opener of the doubleheader 6-4.

Right-hander Art Fowler turned in his fifth victory of the year for Cincinnati in the opener but he needed batting support by outfielder Wally Pate and pitching help from reliever Joe Black. Post collected four hits, including a three-run homer, his 25th of the season. Ted Kluszewski and rookie Milt Smith also homered. They were No. 32 for big Klu and No. 1 for Smith.

Mays batted in three runs in the nightcap, two of which resulted from his 30th home run in the eighth. Off reliever Gerry Staley Hofman's four-bagger came off loser Collum in the seventh to break a 1-1 tie.

Buccos Top Cubs Twice

Hall Fans 11, Law 8 In 12-5, 3-2 Battles

PITTSBURGH, July 24 (AP)—Frank Thomas scored Jerry Lynch with a single in the last of the 10th inning today as the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in a second game after winning the first contest 12-5 on a 19-hit attack.

The double victory gave the place Pirates a clean sweep of their four-game series with the Chicago Cubs.

The victory in the second game went to Vernon Law who allowed only four hits. He didn't give up a walk and fanned eight.

A crowd of 14,466 saw Dick Hall, tested previously as an infielder and outfielder by the Cubs, make his big league pitching debut in the opener in which he fanned 11 Cubs, one short of a record for a Pirate moundman.

Saul Rogovin Blanks Cards, Phils Cop Two

Take Nightcap, 3-0, After 6-5 Triumph

PHILADELPHIA, July 24 (AP)—Saul Rogovin, the American League castoff, ran his scoreless string to 11 innings for the Philadelphia Phillies today by shutting out the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-0, in the second game of a doubleheader called after six innings because of rain. Ed Ennis' three-run homer, his fourth in two days, won the game for the Phillies, who chalked up their 15th win in 16 starts.

Rogovin's three-hit effort in the nightcap overshadowed Roy Smalley's three-run clutch double which climaxed a five-run spurge in the opener to give the Phils a 6-5 win.

Rookie Jack Meyer, a fast-balling right-hander, pitched three fine innings of relief in the first game to save Lefty Curt Simmons' seventh win of the season against five losses. Meyer struck out the side in the ninth after walking the lead-off batter.

Dickel Scores Third Triumph For Mt. Savage

Ralph Posts 12-1 Win Over Flintstone In Lone Pen-Mar Game

PEN-MAR LEAGUE

Grantville	15	5	Barrelville	7	13
Wellersburg	15	5	Eckhart	5	15
Mt. Savage	10	11	Flintstone	5	16

Ralph Dickel, veteran right-hander, scattered five hits and registered his third straight pitching triumph of the season as the Mt. Savage Old Germans walloped the Flintstone Farmers yesterday at Mt. Savage by the score of 12-1 in the only contest played in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

Three other games, Grantsville at Hyndman, Zihlman at Wellersburg and Barrelville at Eckhart, were postponed on account of wet grounds.

Mt. Savage pounded the offerings of Bill Haberlein and Kenny Lough for 14 hits. Clyde Broadwater and Bobby Cassidy sparked the Old Germans with three blows each. One of Broadwater's wallops was a two-bagger. Ronnie Carter smacked a triple and single and Joe Langan had two singles.

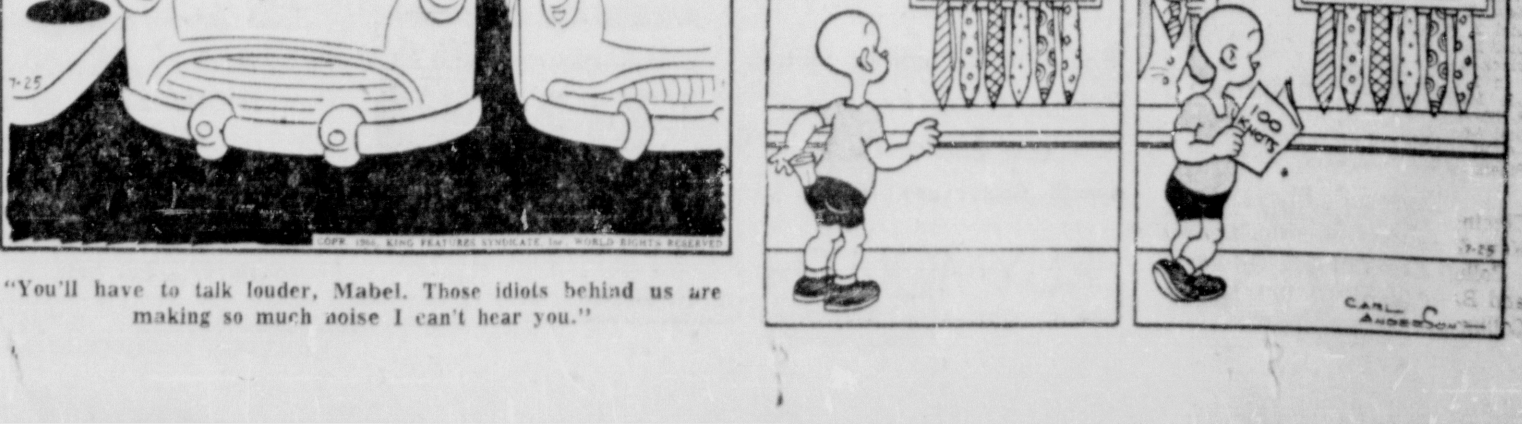

Dickel limited Flintstone to five singles and struck out four. His league record now is 3-0.

Clyde Broadwater, Mt. Savage second sacker, turned in a nice one-handed stab of a smash from Smith's bat with two on and two out in the 6th while Ocie Raines, Old Germans' right fielder, robbed Kines of what appeared to be an extra base hit with a one-handed catch of the latter's drive in the 7th frame.

Results of Saturday's games were as follows: Grantsville 7, Zihlman 5; Wellersburg 18, Mt. Savage 17; Hyndman 11, Barrelville 10; Flintstone 15, Eckhart 8.

Yesterday's score: FLINTSTONE 000 000 000—1 3 3

Deaths
JOHN W. JACKSON
 LONACONING — John William Jackson, 75, of East Main Street, died yesterday morning at his home. He was a retired local merchant.

Born on September 29, 1879, he was a son of the late James and Janet (Haig) Jackson.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, the Masonic Lodge, and a charter member of the Lonaconing Lions Club.

Survivors include his widow, Mabel (Hohing) Jackson; one daughter, Mrs. C. W. Englander, Oakland; one son, Lt. Col. John Haig Jackson, Wilmington, N. C.; and five grandchildren.

A funeral service will be conducted tomorrow at 3:30 p.

Throat Injury Caused Death Of Waitress

Two Men Jailed In Tavern Fight

A throat injury was listed yesterday as the cause of the death of a waitress who was struck by a chair during a Friday night barroom brawl in which she was an innocent bystander.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said an autopsy showed that Mrs. Daisy E. Priddy, 45, of 11 Fifth Street, died of asphyxia caused by a rupture of the larynx or windpipe.

Mrs. Priddy died early Saturday morning, about 45 minutes after she was admitted to Memorial Hospital following the fight at the South Cumberland Republican Club. She will be buried tomorrow.

The two participants in the fight were still in Allegany County Jail last night under $2,500 bond each on manslaughter charges. They are Clyde Fike, 32, of 124 Frederick Street, and Richard Newhouse, 26, of 212 South Smallwood Street. Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick ordered both held for action of the October Grand Jury after a preliminary hearing Saturday.

Police said Fike told them this story:

Fike met Newhouse and two women in a downtown bar Friday night. They invited him to go with them to the Republican Club, and he accepted.

When they reached the club, the two women went inside and Fike and Newhouse went to a nearby tavern to visit a friend of Newhouse who was tending bar there.

After Newhouse got into a dispute with some acquaintances, Fike told Newhouse he would go on to the Republican Club and meet him there. When Newhouse joined Fike and the others at the club, he cursed Fike and accused Fike of "running out" on him.

An argument followed, and Newhouse broke the bottom off a beer bottle and threatened Fike with the jagged end. Fike grabbed a chair, threw it at the bottle in Newhouse's hand, but missed when the latter ducked, and struck Mrs. Priddy instead. Other patrons then grabbed Newhouse and stopped the fight.

Fike said he went to Mrs. Priddy's side to see how badly she was injured. Then he left her to call an ambulance or a doctor, but she was taken to the hospital in the meantime.

Then, said Fike, he went out the back door to get some fresh air because he didn't feel well. He was arrested there by Officers Kenneth W. Morrissey and Warren G. Brehm, who had been called to investigate the fight.

Also injured in the fight was another patron, Miss Leola Corrigan of Frostburg. She was treated at Memorial Hospital for a leg laceration.

Police said Fike, now unemployed, formerly worked for the Cumberland Transit Company. Newhouse has been home on sick leave from his job at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

Mrs. Priddy, a former employee at the Amcette plant of the Celanese Corporation, had worked at the Republican Club for nearly five years.

A native of Kessel, W. Va., she was a daughter of the late John and Annie (Smith) Scott. Surviving are her husband, Arthur B. Priddy; a daughter, Miss Barbara L. Priddy, at home; three brothers, Holly E. Scott, this city; Robert H. Scott, Oldtown, and Raymond A. Scott, Short Gap, and a sister, Mrs. Dale V. Kelly, who resided with her.

A funeral service will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Scarpelli Funeral Home by Rev. Louis B. Chastain. Burial will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Wilma Phillips Is East Side Playlot Queen

Miss Wilma Phillips of Reynolds Street, will be crowned queen of East Side Playlot tonight at the regular weekly square dance, which begins at 7:30 o'clock.

She was chosen queen by popular vote of all youngsters registered at the playground, a special balloting held Thursday. Princesses elected include Marjorie and Jeanie Bird of Baltimore Avenue, while Nancy Valentine and Sherry Boore were named flower girls.

Prior to the square dance tonight a meeting of the playground will be held to discuss plans for the float to be entered in the Bicentennial parade next month.

East Side Playlot is scheduled for participation in the three-man basketball tournament tonight and Wednesday at 7 p. m. at Post Playlot. Mrs. Maxine Zehrbach, playground director said boy and girl volunteers are needed to complete the lineups.

Mrs. Zehrbach also noted that the annual picnic for the children of the playground will be held Wednesday at Constitution Park. All who plan to participate should meet at the playground at noon, bringing their individual lunches and swim money.

On Thursday at 8:30 p. m. the weekly motion picture show will be presented.

Clinic Is Planned

The Health Department has scheduled a child health clinic tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. in Cressaptown.

Church Burns Mortgage

Rev. W. Randolph Keefe (left) and R. Harwood Bagby, president of the Maryland Baptist Church Extension Society, view the charred remains of Grace Baptist Church's $34,000 building mortgage at a ceremony during the morning worship service yesterday. Rev. Keefe, pastor, told the congregation that the church now is completely debt-free, and has about $78,000 invested in its Greene Street site.

Potomac River Board To Meet In Hagerstown

Ellis S. Tisdale Is Named Director

The Interstate Commission on the Upper Potomac River Basin will hold its fall meeting in Hagerstown September 12 and 13.

Development of land resources, soil conservation and watershed management have been chosen as topics for discussion at the sessions planned at the Hotel Alexander.

Groundwork for the meeting was laid recently at an informal meeting in the commission's offices in Washington. Among those present was J. G. Patrick, chairman of the commission's industrial committee and supervisory engineer for the Savage River Dam.

The committee also decided to hold its winter meeting in Washington in February and to devote the session to comprehensive planning for sewage treatment in the Washington metropolitan area.

Tentative plans were made to hold the spring meeting somewhere in the Shenandoah Valley on the subject, "Industrial cooperation to reduce stream pollution in the Potomac River Basin."

Commissioners met July 1 in Washington, with President George F. Hazelwood, this city, presiding. They gave a vote of thanks to L. M. Fisher, acting director, who is being succeeded by Ellis S. Tisdale.

Bicentennial News Briefs

Orders for the Bicentennial souvenir plates will be taken tonight from 7 to 9 o'clock by the Cumberland Jaycees at the corner of Baltimore and Centre streets, front of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, and also in front of the Second National Bank.

The Balto Avenue Belles will meet Wednesday at 8 p. m. at Andy's Place. Plans for a party will be made by the chapter which includes about 25 Bicentennial Belles.

Six Are Injured When Cars Collide

Six persons were injured yesterday at 9:30 a. m. in a two-car collision on Maryland Route 31, about five miles west of Manns Choice.

Injured were Harry H. Gaudig, 54, Route 1, Manns Choice, rib injuries; Norman R. Markle, Munkers, Pa., chest injuries; Raymond Markle, about 60, of Munkers, fractured left wrist and lacerated forehead; Ruth Markle, about 59, left leg injuries; Betty Lynch, 72, fractured left leg, and Clara Rager, 77, fractured left wrist.

They were being treated in Bedford County Memorial Hospital.

Pennsylvania State Police said the accident occurred when the car driven by Markle collided with the car Gaudig was driving from a private driveway.

Rotary To Hear Kopp

Charles Kopp, past district governor of the Rotary Club, will present a review of the recent global anniversary international convention in Chicago at the weekly meeting of the local Rotary Club tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

MISS CLELA BECKWITH

Honor Student Joins Women's Army Corps

Miss Clela Beckwith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh N. Beckwith, 224 Wallace Street, has enlisted in the WAC and will leave today for the induction station at Fairmont, W. Va., after which she will be assigned to Ft. McClellan, Ala., where the new training center of the Woman's Army Corp has been completed.

Miss Beckwith is a graduate of Carver High School, class of 1953, where she was an honor student. She was the valedictorian of her class and the recipient of a clerical award, a certificate of merit, good sportsmanship award, home economics award, Readers Digest Award, mathematics award and biology award, at the time of her graduation.

During her scholastic career she was a member of the school basketball team for girls and in 1952 was chosen for the girls' all-conference basketball team. In her school work she attained awards in sewing, algebra and biology, in addition to honors she received upon graduation. She served as student librarian from 1949 to 1952; assisted in the school office 1949-53; assisted in the cafeteria 1949-52; was a cheerleader 1950-51; played basketball 1948-53; was an usher 1951-53; a monitor in 1951 and '52 and was a lieutenant in the school patrol.

Miss Beckwith served as president of Carver Glee Club in 1953 and was a member of the club for three years. She participated in the Morgan Musical Festival in 1953 and in the Christmas Opera at the school in 1952.

She was elected "Miss Carver" in 1950 and again in 1952.

Since her graduation, Miss Beckwith has kept up her scholastic attainment by home study and took courses in practical nursing and child care. She has done domestic work in several households. She declared, upon enlistment, that she plans to enroll for training in Armed Forces Schools.

Her brother, Leo Beckwith, who graduated from Carver in 1954, is already in the Army and is now stationed in Japan. She has a younger brother, Frederick, at home, and two younger sisters, Shirley and Paulette. Her father has been employed at the Kelly Springfield Tire Company here for a number of years.

Child Falls From Car

Charles Dailey Haines, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Haines, Springfield, W. Va., was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday after he fell from his father's automobile while riding on the Green Spring Road. The lad apparently opened the door of the car.

He sustained injuries about the head, right cheek and forehead, and right arm and leg. He remained in the hospital for care and observation.

Red Feather Budget Talks Are Under Way

Three Meetings Are Planned This Week

The Budget Committee of the Cumberland Community Chest has scheduled three meetings this week to review budget requests submitted by nine Red Feather agencies.

The meetings will be held today, Wednesday and Friday at 4 p. m. at Community Chest headquarters in the Liberty Trust building.

Heading the budget committee is E. M. Peuschel, a member of the staff of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

Other members of the committee are:

Graydon S. Dunlap, of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union; Charles L. Cross, of Local 489, Plumbers and Steamfitters Union; John D. Kelly, Allegany County Teachers Association.

Ronald W. Pitcher, trainmaster, for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; Paul Shircliffe, representing South Cumberland; Byron O. Waite, for the Amcette plant of the Celanese Corporation; Charles Davis, of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America; and B. Woodward Dyche, for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

The committee met last week for an organization meeting and set up the schedule for reviewing budget requests submitted by the agencies.

The Chest agencies include the Associated Charities, Baby Welfare Society, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Jewish Welfare Society, Keating Day Nursery, Salvation Army, Travelers Aid Society and Central YMCA.

Boy Is Hurt In Collision

A 6-year-old Corriganville boy was injured early yesterday morning when the car in which he was riding collided head-on with another vehicle on Route 36, about one mile south of Corriganville.

Maryland State Police said the injured lad, Blaine Fettes, suffered lacerations of the face and body and that 11 stitches were used to close the cuts.

He was injured when the car his brother, Richard H. Fettes, 24, of Corriganville, was driving north on Route 36, collided with a south-bound car driven by Walter Ellis Pinard, 72, Mt. Savage.

State Police said the mishap occurred when Fettes allowed the car to cross the white line and crash head-on with the oncoming vehicle.

Trooper J. F. Stakem, who investigated, said the accident resulted from the failure of Fettes to keep to the right of the center of the road.

City Finishes Fiscal Year With Surplus

$101,500 Left To Apply To New Budget

The City of Cumberland ended its 1954-55 fiscal year with a surplus of about $101,500, according to Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor.

The fund, he said, is about $42,500 less than was on hand to begin the 1954-55 fiscal year which ended on June 30.

Some $65,000 of the surplus, Gibson said, represents unexpended funds allocated to various city departments during the past fiscal year.

Another $36,500 of the money consists of excess collections from state, county and city tax sources.

These excess revenues are low, he explained, citing the some $73,000 excess collections during the 1953-54 fiscal year.

The difference between the $144,000 on hand to prime the 1954-55 budget and the $101,500 which will be available to start off the 1955-56 budget — $42,500, represents almost six cents on the tax rate, based on the $73,533,000 assessments used in preparing last year's budget.

The Mayor and Council are expected to begin planning the next budget soon. The ordinances fixing the tax rate for the fiscal year must be set not later than August 25.

Home Struck By Lightning

South End Fire Company was called to the home of Roy L. Merritt, 111 West Mary Street, yesterday at 11:51 a. m. after a bolt of lightning struck the home.

Firemen said they believe the lightning hit the power service line and followed it into the home.

The force of the blast, firemen said, knocked plaster from the kitchen, bedroom and living room, and blew fuses from the telephone and power system.

They said the family, home when the lightning struck, escaped injury.

There was considerable smoke in the basement of the home, firemen said, resulting from damage to the fuse box there.

The lightning struck during one of several brief electrical displays which accompanied yesterday's cooling rains.

Charter Is Draped For IBEW President

Cumberland Local 307, Electrical Workers Union (AFL), has ordered its charter draped for 30 days in memory of J. Scott Milne, 57, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL).

Mr. Milne died last Wednesday of a heart attack at his farm near Portland, Ore. His body was brought to Washington for a funeral service today at 11 a. m.

Today's Sermonette

(Today's Sermonette is a digest of a sermon preached at Second Baptist Church by the pastor, Rev. Cornelius B. Davis. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.)

"Father forgive them, for they know not what they do." Luke 23:34

Father, Forgive Them

By REV. CORNELIUS DAVIS

A native Buddhist priest came to an American missionary in India to ask what this gospel was he was preaching. The missionary told briefly of the love and compassion of Jesus throughout His life and finished his story by telling of Jesus death on the cross and His words, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." After the native had heard the story, he jumped to his feet in a rage and commanded the missionary, saying "Get out of India! Get out of India! You will convert all our people if you tell them that story. For in all of our religions we have no story of love like that."

No manifestation of love has ever been clearer than this. No sign of power has ever been more in evidence than this. In the love of Jesus for all mankind which led Him to the cross, intercession was made for transgressors—forgiveness was offered for sinners. What greater power is there than the power to forgive sin—the power to give a person new life with complete security in the present life—the power to give a person eternal life with complete salvation in the future life.

This prayer that Jesus offered from the Cross and the power this prayer unleashed is just as needful for those of us living in the 20th Century as it was to those in the Second Century, for men continue to sin against Jesus Christ. It is not unusual that these words from the mouth of Jesus would be in the form of a prayer, for, as Dr. Edward McDowell has said, "Jesus lived a life of prayer." He was constantly in touch with the Father.

Even though this prayer is very clear in its meaning, it is indistinct in its aim. How we thank God for this indistinctness. Because of it, we are able to get in on the power it radiates. "Father, forgive them," "That small four-letter word," "seems like a Charlot of mercy that has come down to earth," says Charles Spurgeon, "into which a man may step, and it shall bear him up to heaven."

Jesus did not say, "Father, forgive Pilate," or "Father, forgive them."

'Redskin And Redcoats' Rehearsals Are Planned

Rehearsals and committee meetings have been scheduled today through Friday in preparation for the Bicentennial spectacle, "Redskins and Redcoats," which will be presented August 15 through 20 at Fort Hill High School Stadium.

The schedule, announced last night by French Sensabaugh, director, includes:

Today, Property committee meeting at 7 p. m. at Bicentennial headquarters, Gay 90s scene rehearsal at 8 p. m. at the Elks Club and Roaring 20s rehearsal at 9 p. m. at the Elks Club.

Tomorrow, rehearsal of the Prologue — states, cadets, jacksies, trumplers, nations, queens and Boy and Girl Scouts, 3 p. m. at the Armory; Casting committee meeting at 7 p. m. at Bicentennial headquarters and rehearsal for Indians and Naval Reserve casts at 8 p. m. at the Armory.

Wednesday, Indian girl dancers, rehearsal at 3 p. m. and Can Can dancers at 3:30 p. m. at the Elks Club; Construction committee meeting at 7 p. m. at Bicentennial headquarters and Indian and pioneers rehearsal at 8 p. m. at the Moose Club.

Thursday, rehearsal for Governor Sharpe's ball at 9 p. m. at the Armory.

Friday, Civil War and Iwo Jima scene rehearsals at 8 p. m. at the Armory and the 1835 Fire-Virginia reel scene at 8:15 p. m., both at the Armory.

At least 1,400 persons are expected to appear in the Bicentennial spectacle which will relate the history of the Queen City since the founding of Fort Cumberland 200 years ago.

Special costumes have been ordered for 900 members of the cast in order to present an authentic picture of the men and women who have contributed to the development of this Western Maryland industrial center.

THOMAS T. COOK

Garrett County Man To Teach At Bruce High

Thomas T. Cook, of Grantsville has been appointed as a commercial teacher at Bruce High School in Westernport, according to Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer.

The Garrett County man will succeed Miss Mary Hanna, who retired in June after a 50-year teaching career. An elementary school teacher in Luke and Westernport early in her career, Miss Hanna had been on the Bruce High School faculty since 1919.

A 1944 graduate of South Hills High School in Pittsburgh, Pa., Cook served two years in the U. S. Navy during and following World War II.

After the war, Cook attended West Virginia University in Morgantown, where he received a B. S. in business education. He also has done graduate work at the University of Maryland.

From 1932 until 1954, Cook was on the faculty of Northern Garrett County High at The Cove. During the past year he held a business position in Nevada.

Decline Noted In Demand For Surplus Foods

The demand for surplus foods in this county continues a downward trend as employment in many areas increases, it was noted in this month's distribution, completed Friday.

Walker Chapman, county road supervisor who has charge of handling and distributing the commodities, said 2,713 families, comprising 8,965 persons, received surplus foods this month.

His report shows that in Westernport 155 families of 536 people received 719 pounds of butter; 556 pounds cheese; 837 pounds milk; and 870 pounds of shortening.

In Barton, 191 families of 588 persons received 826 pounds butter; 633 pounds cheese; 954 pounds milk and 1,152 pounds shortening.

Lonaconing record shows 308 families of 1,032 persons were given 1,439 pounds butter; 1,070 pounds cheese; 1,593 pounds milk; and 1,890 pounds shortening.

In Midland, 184 families of 610 individuals obtained 850 pounds butter; 643 pounds cheese; 960 pounds milk; and 1,107 pounds shortening.

Frostburg, where the demand was highest in the county except in Cumberland, shows that 301 families of 1,330 people received 1,843 pounds butter; 1,356 pounds cheese; 2,030 pounds milk; and 2,280 pounds shortening.

Eckhart had 111 families of 386 people receiving 536 pounds butter; 531 pounds cheese; 828 pounds milk; and 936 pounds shortening.

Mt. Savage reported 156 families of 529 people received 766 pounds butter; 573 pounds cheese; 828 pounds milk; and 936 pounds butter.

At Cressapton, 106 families of 357 individuals received 494 pounds butter; 376 pounds cheese; 558 pounds milk and 636 pounds shortening.

In Cumberland, in two days of distribution, 1,121 families representing 3,597 persons applied for and received 4,846 pounds of butter; 10,821 pounds cheese; 5,738 pounds milk; and 6,717 pounds shortening.

Total distribution for July, Chapman reported was 12,319 pounds of butter; 9,359 pounds of cheese; 14,038 pounds of milk; and 16,254 pounds of shortening.

Registration for the September distribution of federal surplus commodities, Chapman noted, will be held by all cooperating agencies except Frostburg, on August 1, 2 and 3. Because some of the people who do the registration for the Red Cross in Frostburg will be away that week, Frostburg will be moved up to Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, July 27, 28 and 29.

The August distribution, for which registration has already been completed, will begin at Westernport on August 8.

Korean Veteran Dies As Car Runs Into Tree

Jackie G. Hanselman Discharged On June 1

A veteran of the Korean War died instantly Saturday evening when his automobile plunged over an embankment on the Kennels Mills Road about five miles south of Hyndman, plowed through 127 feet of thick brush and struck a tree.

Jackie Gerald Hanselman, 24, RD 1, Hyndman, died at 6:55 p. m. (EST) with a fractured skull and broken neck, according to Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford.

The accident occurred approximately three-tenths of a mile east of the Bedford County-Somerset County boundary on Pennsylvania Legislative Route 05007, also called the Wellersburg Road.

Hanselman, apparently driving his 1940 sedan at a high rate of speed, failed to recover control after rounding a curve, went off the left side of the road and crashed into the woods.

The car struck a tree on the left-hand side and was completely demolished.

This marks the first 1955 motorist fatality in Bedford County. One pedestrian was killed earlier in the year.

Born on April 14, 1931, Hanselman was reared by foster parents, Norman Boyer and the late Ida Mae (Troutman) Boyer since he was two months old. He was a member of the Cumberland Order of Redmen.

While in the service he earned four medals, including the National Defense Service Medal, Army German Occupation Medal, United States Service Medal and Korean Service Medal. He was honorably discharged June 1.

A funeral service will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Comps Church, with Rev. Charles Evans, pastor,
